TO DEBATE

Socialist Labor Party Candidate and Prominent Lawyer to Meet in Buffalo.

Special to The Daily People.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 19.-There is treat in store for the Buffalo comrades and the public in general. A public debate is arranged to take place next Sunday afternoon, October 26, at 2.30 o'clock sharp, at the Academy Theatre, 247 Main street, between Comrade Daniel De Leon, our candidate for Governor, and Attorney Wallace Thayer, of Buffalo.

The subject is: "Resolved, That the only solution of the Trust Problem is the Socialist Co-operative Republic."

The two debaters together will deliver five speeches, each speaking an aggregate of 90 minutes. The debate, will thus last three hours, from 2.30 p. m. sharp to 5.30. Doors will open at 1.30 p. m. General admission is fixed at 10 cents, entitling to a seat in balcony or gallery; reserved seats in orchestra and boxes, 25, 50 and 75 cents.

Mr. Thayer is the Buffalo lawyer who delivered last April before the Buffalo Labor Lyceum a lecture on "The Evils of Socialism," which created a sensation in the capitalist press and secured for him the reputation of a dare-devil. One of the leading Buffalo papers reporting that lecture stated that "Mr. Thayer bearded yesterday the lion in his den,' because he was not afraid to speak on "The Evils of Socialism" before an audience reputed to be controlled by the Socialists. The agents of the capitalist class were so happy to have found a daring champion against Socialism, that Rev. Father Cronin asked him to reproduce that lecture for the "Catholic Union and Times," which he did; and the lecture was printed in a most prominent place in that paper and b besides editorially. It was this lecture that was refuted in the three articles headed "The Catholic Union and Times" and published in The Daily and Weekly People last

Mr. Thaver was also invited by one of the principals of our high scho deliver the same lecture to the students, and accepted the invitation. That is also an illustration of the kind of an education our children are getting.

The debate promises to be a very in-teresting one and successful in all respects. One of the most reliable stenog raphers of the city is engaged to tak the debate down, and it will be published in pamphlet form as soon as possible.

Monday evening, October 27, at o'clock, Comrade De Leon will speak at the Socialist Labor Party mass meeting in National Hall (Turn Hall), 385 Elliott street, near Genesee street, Buffalo. Admission to this meeting is free.

SUCH IS "UNIONISM."

Chicago, Oct. 20 .- The Chicago Federation of Labor went on record as a 'strike breaker" yesterday when, by an almost unanimous vote, the striking members of the Wholesale Grocers' Employes Union were ordered to return to work pending the settlement of their troubles by arbitration. Five large es-tablishments had been ied up and two more were threatened.

This action by the federation was due to the fact that its executive board was a party to an agreement between the wholesale grocers and their men, made in September, which provided for the arbitration of all difficulties. The strike was called before any such arbitration had taken place.

UNABLE TO ANSWER SOCIALIST LABOR PARTY INDICTMENT.

"Socialist" Candidate Seeks to Dodge Issue and Turns Working Class Audience Against Himself-Spontaneous Applause for Socialist Labor Party Virility-A Happy Augury,

Special to The Daily People.

Pittsfield, Mass., Oct. 19 .- The seeds of Socialism, falling ripe and potent from the tree of economic development, are as visible, manifest and active in their action here in Pittsfield, Mass., as else

Pittsfield is a city of less than 20,000 inhabitants, situated amongst the Berkshire hills in Western Massachusetts. Though it is an industrial city-the production of textiles, electrical machinery and apparatus being prominent industries-there is yet noticeable in its at-mosphere and the manners of its people a strong flavor of the bourgeois. is a result, supposedly, of the presence here and in the neighboring town of Lenox, during a large portion of the year, of the aristocratic "cottagers."

At the present time the "pure and simple" "no politics in the union" malorganizations of labor are as full of politics as the proverbial "toper" is of rum.
The secretary of the Central Labor Union, Wm. MacInnis, has secured the nomination for State Senator from that political arch-enemy of progress, of civilization and of the working class, the Democratic party.

All the unions in the district are holding special meetings at which he is speaking. The Central Labor Union has arranged for a public meeting here in this city next Monday evening. This, notwithstanding that he has issued a "statement" to the effect that he is not the least bit radical. He believes in "Harmony between capital and labor," fair day's work for a fair day's pay,'

An ass whose ears did not hang entirely over his eyes might plainly see that MacInnis promises to give the work ing class lip service and the capitalist class legislative service. It goes without saying that his abilities for either service are on a par with his honesty. capitalist interests will understand him at once; the working class, with its in-telligence smothered by pure and simple trades unionism, will be deceived and on election day will sandbag itself.

Verily, the ballot with which the workstab themselves, their wives, their children, their hopes, their aspira-tions and their possibilities, is no paper dagger, and across the bloody industrial theatre, over the mangled bodies, minds and souls of the workers, the labor fakir, clutching fast in his left hand the Judas price of his perfidious crimes, reaches the right hand in hearty clasp with the Kangaroo Social Democrat, saying, "I greet you as an advanced thinker." And the Kangaroo with eyes greedy-glistening for graft, answers through his venomous "Brother! nobly is the class struggle being waged by you and yours!"

Ex-Mayor John C. Chase, of Haverhill, spoke here a few nights ago in the interest of the Kangaroo movement, now known in this State by grace of capitalist legislation as the "Socialist Party."

The Socialist Labor Party was on deck and forced him to answer questions. the indictment drawn against himself and his party he was unable to make any reply other than that the S. L. P. was about dead. The best man it ever had, Sanial had now left it! I rade told the workers assembled that the S. L. P. promptly and invariably kicked out every crook and would-be destroyer so soon as he showed himself, as the business "law and order" the burst of applause which rose, spontaneous and strong, showed how well the honest, vigorous working class appreciates the virility of the S. L. P. and is an augury that in days to come, and shortly, the workers will rally en masse to its standard and stand by it, if need be, to the last ditch.

The capitalist press in its report of the meeting stated next day that Chase had troubles of his own, for everybody present seemed to be for the S. L. P. when he attempted to found a local of his party, only five men remained in the We have also succeeded in balking, Samuel J. French arrived in town on their tour through Massachusetts. Malloney's spleudid appearance drew immediate observation. It was whispered on the street that the man who walked like as if he owned the earth was J. P. Morgan, come to town with a few lumps of anthracite in his grip which were purchasable at scarcity prices. Later the news percolated through the town that the remarkable individual was not J. P. Morgan and did not indeed own the earth, but was, however, a member and a renresentative of the class to whom the earth and all the wealth of modern civilization of right belonged, a class which though now deprived of its rights was being educated and organized through the efforts and energy of some of its own members to the point where it will understand its class interests and reclaim its class heritage. And the "grip" contained literature of the Socialist Labor to-morrow.

Party-lamps by the light of which the working class marches on to its emancipation.

At night a meeting, numbering upwards of four hundred persons who remained right through to the end, was held in the open air in the square opposite the post office. John J. Duffy acted as chairman, saying briefly that those workingmen who acknowledged the correctness of the S. L. P. and its program, and still voted the capitalist tickets, were like the col-ored congregation which was obliged to build a new church and carried three resolutions, to wit:

"Resolved, That we build a new church;

"Resolved, That we use the bricks of the old church in the construction of the new one;

"Resolved. That we use the old church for services while the new one is in progress of construction."

Samuel J. French next spoke for about twenty-five minutes, paying particular attention to the Kangaroo and his poltrooney during the last weavers' strike. where no soquer had the fight begun at the Washington Mills in Lawrence Mass., than they grew sick at heart and, whining that they would lose their jobs, that scabs would get their looms, broke ranks and rushed back helterskelter to the destructive toil and consumption-breeding conditions against which they had for a moment, and for a moment only, been induced to take a stand Malloney was then introduced, and for an hour and a half he held the large crowd in the chilly night air, speaking with his usual effectiveness and power. He told of the rookeries in West Pittsfield, that he had seen in entering the town, which would not make respectable hen houses and asked his hearers to carry in their minds and hearts to the ballot box the remembrance that they it is who lived in those rookeries, they it is who labored and created all the good things of life and enjoyed nothing but misery and degradation, and to vote not into power the representatives of the class and system which crushed them, but to support the only party of the working class, the Socialist Labor Party.

A great deal of literature was distribtwenty pamphlets were sold. Section Pittsfield donated five dollars to the State campaign fund.

The local capitalist papers which will devote a column of space to the death of a cat or a scrap between a couple of poodles belonging to the "cottagers" reported the meeting in half a dozen lines at the bottom of their sheets.

BRIGHT OUTLOOK.

For Socialist Labor Party in Denver-Agitation Telling. Special to The Daily People.

Denver, Col., Oct. 12 .- The challenge that ve issued to the "Socialist" party has not. up to date, been accepted, and the fact that they don't accept it is opening the eyes of many honest workers, and they are kick ing, naturally. The challenge is to debate the following: "Resolved that the S. L. P. is the only true representative of Socialism in America.'

The past week a representative in the last General Assembly of Colorado told a member of the S. L. P. "that D. C. Coates has received $1,000, and his partner, Thum. is to be made Labor Commissioner of Colorado in case the Republican party is electodd this fall. Comrade Holzsmige is the comrade that was told, and the party claims that he will give the information out after election. It will be great stuff. I don't believe Bucklin will accept the challenge of the S. E. C. to discuss his single tax measures. I am of opinion the measure will be defeated by a large vote,

Taking it all in all, the outlook is bright for the S. L. P. While I do not look for a great increase in the vote, I do believe it will rise a little, and the general agitation carried on by the crooks will have a tion carried on by the eyes of the workers, while the scrap now on between the A. F. of L. and the A. L. U. is causing many workers to ask "Who is wrong?" Smith Pierce of the A. F. of L. organizing dual unions in the paper mill and the mattress makers strikes, and the A. L. U. showing him up and then pointing the workers way into the "Socialist party," places them in such a light that when the S. L. P. points out the fact that the S. L. P. has been constantly in the field since 1890 it is a stunner to them and is beginning to be felt. E. O. Cochran.

Holyoke, Mass., Oct. 17 .- Ex-Mayor Chase of Haverhill, in a speech at Web-ster, made the statement that his party polled 25,000 votes last year in Massa chusetts, and would surely poll 50,000 this year. Comrade Connolly, on the occasion of his visit to Springfield, when this same Haverhill ex-Mayor dropped into the meeting to ask foolish questions, had occasion to call him a barefaced liar for making just such statements as the above. CRATIC POLITICIANS.

Special to The Daily People. Cleveland, O., Oct. 18 .- No doubt the comrades elsewhere would like to know what kind of a reception was given to Comrade Connolly of Dublin, Ireland, here. The meeting was well advertised, even the daily capitalist papers gave us space. The meeting was held in Germania Hall and the attendance numbered from 400 to 500 people, which was a disappointment to the writer, as far as numbers were concerned. I expected to see fully 1000 at least, which we no doubt would have got, but for the fact that the circus clown and all round jollier and bluffer, Tom L. Johnson, the single taxer and Democrat, arrived in the afternoon and pitched his tent upon the public square.

This is the same mayor of Cleveland that accepted a challenge from the S. L. P. of Cleveland to debate with a representative of our party, but de-clined, because he was afraid of a stenographic report. However, Mr. Johnson had brass bands and fireworks and cannons booming, which could heard and seen for miles around. He certainly did get the crowd which we expected to get as it was too much of a temptation for the Irish working class of this city to resist the excite-Nevertheless, the audience was well pleased with Goerke's and Connolly's addresses. Fourteen subscriptions for the Workers' Republic were secured and a collection of over $18 was taken. The S. L. P. had a beautiful band, whose services were donated by the Boehm orchestra in honor of the occasion. When the strains of the Marseilles was playing the audience applauded enthusiastically.

Comrade Connolly depicted the conditions of the Irish working class in its true character, and showed the landlord and capitalist class to be the same robber class the world over. One thing I forgot to mention: The organizer went to the director of public works and asked permission to put up banner announcing the meeting on the public square, as Tom L. Johnson had one there; but we were denied the same right as Tom L. Johnson. But what did we receive in return? Charles P. Salem, a slick politician of the lower type, better known as Tom L. Johnson's hired man Friday, ent a gang of political pop suckers, about eighteen in all, and distributed them in all parts of the ground floor. At a given signal in the midst of Connolly's speech, this gang began to get up, all at once, to leave the hall, expecting to stampede the crowd who came to hear Connolly. But it didn't work. The audience remained to the last and applauded time and time again the speech of Connolly.

This director of public works, Salem, can see defeat for Tom Johnson's ticket and has become desperate. An elderly gentleman and comrade distributing Connolly dodgers Wednesday evening, near Detroit street, in the Irish neighborhood, when they were set upon by a big burly Democratio and his gang, under the pretence that we did not have the scab label of the typographical union on our dodgers and posters.

The outlook leads me to believe that our vote in Cleveland and in the State will go up. The Republicans will carry the State and Cuyahoga county, while Johnson and his puppet Salem will go down in defeat, along with the Kangaroos, who claim they will poll the 1 per cent. entitling them to an official standing upon the ballot and forever wipe out the S. L. P., as the corpse has arisen again. James Matthews,

Its Benefit to the Capitalist Class and City of Newark, N. J., Explained.

On October 9 the Newark Board of Trade held a meeting in the lecture room of the Newark Technical School, on High street. Some interesting facts of very great importance to the working population of Newark were brought out by Mr. John C. Dana, the librarian of the Newark Free Public Library. In the course of an address which he delivered, Mr. Dana emphasized the neces sity of more technical education and increased school facilities for a manufacturing city like Newark. He pleaded with the business men present for more liberal donations to the technical school, showing how it would redound greatly to their benefit to have more of the class better educated and trained technically.

"We need men," said he, "to make the wonderfully complicated and delicate machines and the tools the machines themselves use, and the tools with which the machines themselves are made."

The working class, as plainly pointed out here, are expected and do supply their capitalist masters with all the com-plicated machinery and tools of production. All the wealth the capitalist class possess is squeezed out of the working class by the aid of modern machinery, ess is squeezed out of the working Mr. Dana admits the obvious fact that these machines themselves are made by the workers, so the contribution of the capitalist, who pockets the lion's share of all the wealth produced by these machines is—nothing. He neither makes mor operates the machine, yet possesses it and is enabled to enrich himself by per-mitting others—the workers—to make their living by using "his" machines and

And how does the capitalist class show its appreciation of the working class for all the perfected machinery and tools which they so skillfully make and then turn over to the capitalists gratis as so many handsome gifts?

Dana answers the question. He says: "The development of machinery, in recent years, has led to the disappearance, to a large extent, of the old time und mechanic, much of the work they formerly did now being done by mplicated machines operated by wo-en, boys and girls." Here we have the situation in a nutshell. The talented young mechanic of Newark is wanted by Newark's capitalist factory owners Newark's capitalist factory owners enter their technical training school, re to perfect his skiff and knowledge to make ever more perfect machinery and thus enable the capitalist to produce ever more cheaply by harnessing the women, boys and girls to these ma-chines at cheap wages, while the capi-talist and his family, without having contributed one lots either to the making of machines or the production of the goods, can enjoy the proceeds of the la-bor of all the workers. This he can do because of the system of private owner-ship of the land and the machinery and the tools of production which makes him and his class masters of the earth and all others mere slaves thereon—servants to the masters' will and fancy.

That the worker is being robbed in this process must be self-evident to the dull-est, even if Mr. Dana, in the course of plainly and conclusively prove the fact. He tells the "gentlemen" capitalists, "You have 3000 or 4000 factories in which you can employ over 60,000 hands who work up each year $65,000,000 worth of finished production." The workers of Newark therefore produce workers of Newark the value of the raw material and the value of the fin- | talists of Newark in harmony with their ished product in new values.

The value of the raw material worked up every year by the workers of Newark being 65 million dollars and the value of the finished product 127 million dollars the working class of Newark accordingly produces in Newark shops and facby their labor SIXTY-TWO MILLION DOLLARS of new values in one year, or over $1000 per worker year for every one of Newark's 60,000 workers. But do they get $1000 each per year as they are clearly entitled to, according to these, the capitalists', own figures? Not by any means. The thousands of women, boys, and girls-"hands" they call them-what do they receive? Four dollars, $5 and $6 per eek, or a mere pittance of from $200 to $300 per year wages is all they get, and the fact is well known and requires no proof.

For this women, boys, and girls must submit nine or ten hours a day six days per week, and fifty-two long weeks per year, to incessant toil at the machines, in closed factories, endangering their lives, undermining their health and stunting their moral and intellectual development, all for a mere pittance of from $200 to $300 per year, hardly enough to keep body and soul together. Think of it, workingmen- is this not a hourible state of affairs? Is it not the rankest injustice to so endanger and exploit weak and helpless women, boys and girls? and all because of the insatiable greed of the capitalist class which thus cruelly, and without the slightest remorse, literally consumes, in the city of Newark, as well as all over the country, hundreds and thousands of women, boys and girls, sending them to early grave from sickness and disease contracted in shops and factories, or killing them outright, as the many "accidents" amply testify. Over $1000 per year is what Mr. Dana's figures clearly show that every worker in the city of Newark is entitled to. Yet, apart from the women, boys and girls, whose wages are notoriously low, we find that, according to the census of 1900, the average wages for the city of Newark for that year were only 484 dollars, or less than one-half the full product of each worker's labor. The graduate of the technical school, the chanic who furnishes the capitalist with the instruments-the machines-to exploit all other workers, the foremen and superintendents no doubt get $1000 per year and in some cases more, but they also are fiercely ex-

Compared with the service rendered, considering the increase of production which their skill and labor alone makes e, the wages they get are a cheap price to the capitalist for so valuable a service. They, too, are robbed along with the rest of their class and their higher wages which are included in the census figures only still more strikingly emphasize the low wages of the great majority of the workers. More technical education will increase the number of skilled mechanics competing for jobs and thus surely lower their wages and bring down still lower the average wages from year to year.

In view of the true situation, then, it sounds queer waen Mr. Dana says of Newark (speaking of the reflections which came to him during a walk through the city); "Here is a city which is a maker of many things; that is what the scene seemed to say, and also it said. Here is evidence that a city which makes many things must see to it that it also makes good men." Many things indeed are made by the workers of Newark, but how good men can be made by a system of robbing them or more than half the proceeds of their labor is not so evident.

Injustice and wrong, such as the cap-

Gloversville, Oct. 12 .- I spoke to a small but attentive audience in Amsterdam last Friday. The meeting was held in a vacant store, the proprietor of which no doubt had gone to join the rmy of unemployed.

Amsterdam is the town in which Comrades Wallace and Lake were arrested for speaking on the street. No attempt has been made since then to hold street meetings, so the comrades obtained the use of the store, after having quite a fight with the crats, as they did not want the S. L. P. to hold a meeting in that district. But they were defeated in their attempt and did the next best, they held a meeting next door, a vacant store Their meeting was conducted under the auspices of the John J. Riley Association, John J. being the ward politician, the association being dupes who voted for John J. With a piano and singing they whooped it up, but the S. L. P. was heard just the same. Once a large stone was hurled against the building, but the workers present were interested and paid attention to the stone argument of the

It was announced at the beginning of he meeting the Democrats or Republicans of any one who did not agree with us would be given a chance state his objection. A brother of the mayor was present but went out before questions were called for.

A few pamphlets were sold and liter-

The pure and simplers opened the leather workers' fair here last night. On our way to the meeting we stopped to see them parade to the fair hall headed by a brass band. Scarcely had the music died out in the distance, when the voice of the S. L. P. was heard, pointing out to the workers the foolishness of their parades and fairs, while they permitted the capitalists to own the land and machinery. The labor fakirs were hauled over the coals and the capitalist system shown up in its true light.

The chattel slave was compared with the wage slave while you could hear the workers murmur "That's right." The crowd kept on increasing in numbers, and, no doubt, we would have been speaking to 700 or 800 people, only the eléments were against it. for it began to rain. Umbrellas begar to go up, showing that the crowd wanted to hear the "union wreckers" When I found that my clothspeak. ing was getting wet, I was compelled to call the meeting off.

We then went to the labor fakirs' fair and the first act was going on. John Keller of Johnstown, was telling those who would listen, that the weak man should have as good a chance as the strong. That if you shortened the hours of labor, where they were employing, say 100 men now, then they would employ 130 by belonging to the

It would not only belp you but would be a benefit to your children. This was the greatest fair ever held in Gloversville. John is one of the organizers, he will receive $10 if he is able to rope in some of the poor dupes. He finished his speech by saying: "Now ladies and gentlemen, let us all pray to the Al-mighty God to help the honest workingman." Then a Mr. Cummings, national organizer of the blacksmiths, was introduced. He at once began to shout: . "Will you give me your atten-tion ladies and gentlemen! Will you give me your attention! I am going to be brief. I want to come right to the point. You are all employers of labor, remember that you are all employers of labor when you go into the shoe store. If you buy a union made shoe you are employing a union man him union wages, remember that. Moses was the first labor leader He organized the children of Israel. He got his credentials from God Almighty. (Where does Baer come in, in view of current statements?) Now, ladies and gentlemen, all the lower animals are organized. At this the chairman pulled his coat tail. he continued. "I don't want to bring politics into the question. If you hear a man attempting to bring politics into the union put him down as an enemy of organized labor. I believe we ought to be divided as nearly equal as pos sible into the two old parties. But that won't kill the trust. I'll tell you why When the Democrats start to move against the trust the Republicans will vote against it and when the Republicans start to move against it the Democrats will vote against it. So what did they do? Instructed their secretary to write to brother Douglas and ask to have another firm appointed One who was not a captain of militia! Great is organized labor!

EAST ST. LOUIS

Turns Down Riotous Labor Leaders Who Tried to Stop S. L. P. Meeting.

Special to The Daily People.

East St. Louis, Ill., Oct. 13.-Last Saturday night Section East St. Louis held another rousing open air meeting, such as is only possible with the strenuous tactics of the revolutionary Socialist Labor Party.

The speakers were Veal and Francis, of Collinsville, Ill. The meeting was enlivened quite a bit by some labor fakirs who, in true anarchistic style, attempted to break up the meeting with demenstrations of violence.

The pot began to boil when some innocent pure and simpler tried to graft "yunyunism" upon our audience by distributing a handbill with the following contents:

"In Casland Opera House, Wednesday evening, October 15, vaudeville and musical entertainment given under the anspices of the Central Trades and Labor Union in honor of the visiting delegates of the Lilinois State Federation of Labor. Among the features of the evening will be five-minute speeches by Federation orators. Tickets, 50 cents."

Veal, of course, paid his compliments to them, in the course of which he adcrowd to save their 50 and buy themselves a beefsteak with it.

The news of this "insult" to ized labor" soon spread to the adjoining barrel houses, and forthwith the forces of Organized Scabbery were marshalled. The attack came when the meeting was thrown open for questions. The ques-tion was asked, of Vcal, whether it was true that he advised the audience to buy beefsteak instead of a ticket to hear five minute orations by labor fakirs? Veal's answer in the affirmative brought a volley of denunciations from all sides.

It was plain to us that they intended to chase us out of town, but their nerve failed them when the audience took hand. They also were all trying to talk at once, vicing with each other in their efforts to remird the boisterous fakirs of their shortcomings. For a time a riot seemed imminent. Denunciations, ornamented with the latest barrel house ex plosives, filled the atmosphere. Finally, through the cool-headed efforts of the comrades and the determined stand of the speakers, the crowd was induced to the wind bags over to the speakers. Then the drubbing began. It was an inspiring sight to behold. What a contrast between it and the political scab-loving S. D. P. with the "Handle with care-" latter-day Kangaroo tacticsover an hour the speakers poured hot shot into the raging mob of capitalist lieutenants. Finally a motion was made and put that the speakers vacate. The ayes were called for only, but that was too much for the fakirs' own good. It revealed the fact that there was but a handful of them, and the crowd jeered them until they gradually gravitated back to the various barrel houses in the vicinity. Among other things hurled at the speakers was a challenge by one who claimed to be a representative of the of L., to debate the merits of the A. F. of L. which was promptly accepted. But when the organizer of Section East St. Louis called at the residence of this stremuous union man the next morning to make arrangements for the debate, he found that the noble wager of the class struggle had not "He is probably on a turned in yet. "He is probably tear," said the lady at the house. though the organizer left his address, he has not heard from the skate yet. the principal speaker.

Social Democrats Elected by Means of Fusion With Liberals.

In previous communications I have shown the inconsistency of the leaders of the Social Democracy in Sweden where they, after almost two years of agitation and preparation for a general suffrage strike, at the time of action last spring, transformed the whole affair into a "demonstration of forces, instead of striking a blow at the ene mies of the general suffrage that would have told at once. The spontaneous outbreak of the latent revolutionary spirit of the working class was admir able, and if the leaders had not put on the brakes of their authority, setting a date for the end of the strike before it was started, the whole "revolutionary move" to last only for three days at the most, something would assuredly have been won. As it was, nothing was won but a promise of something to be prosposed by the government to the Riksdag of 1904.

Thus, as the readers of The Daily People know, nothing at all is as yet done for the suffrage question. But the poor workers who had taken part the great demonstrations nevertheless made to feel the anger of the capitalist class in no smaller gree than if a real general strike had taken place. And I have shown that the inability of the leaders to protect the prosecuted victims of the angered capitalists created an opposition within the labor movement to its leaders, that had quite a serious aspect. Now, of late there has not been much of those recent happenings.

Something else has taken up the minds of the workingmen, or at least of their leaders, and the party papers have been filled with nothing but that—the election of representatives to the second chamber of the Riksdag. It is true, as a rule the workers don't have a vote, but some of them, the very bes situated have-if they pay their personal and "income" taxes. Everybo who has an income of more than 800 kronor a year (between $200 and $300) is entitled to a vote, provided he does not shirk his tax duties, which is almost an impossibility, for generally, the executive powers have some very convincing means of teaching the people the reason why taxes must be paid. But they do not apply those means until after election, and so the Social Democratic leaders and papers have come to be almost a part of the collecting authority, seeing that they are very anxious that the assessed workers pay their taxes in time, so that they shall not lose their vote. Now there would, perhaps, not be very much to criticise in that, if at least the fight at the polls would have been the fight of class conscious workingmen against the capitalist class. But such has been the case. The papers and the leaders have been crying for com-promise with the Liberals in such a way, that it must have made the few class conscious workers that live in the country blush with shame. And now the campaign is over, the "struggles" at the ballot box are fought and-the victory bulletin written and printed. and read all over the world. Here is what Hjalmar Branting, who elected from Stockholm on the Liberal ticket, says in Social Demokratem (of which he is the chief editor) of September 29:

"Four Social Democrats in the Second Chamber is the part the working-men's party gets out of the general election victories of the left (the Liberal party). "Sweden advances towards the first column of the countries, where the Social Democracy commences to have its say, even in a parliamentary way.

"It is no accident, on the contrary, it is an expression of the general character of the movement in our country that the three new representatives have all emanated from the ranks of the laborers themselves and thus directly and personally represent the working class.

"The reward of the politics that have been so consistently followed lies now before us in the victories of these ter days."

To effect these victories the candiof the Social Democrats have crawled before the Liberals in a most disgusting and debasing manner. Their request for recognition has in some places been met with not only coolness, but with scorn and insults from the Liberals, without the party organs daring to say a manly word of that wing of the capitalist class, the Liberal party. Of course, the "paramount issue" has been the general suffrage. which, no doubt, has some lukewarm supporters, wanting at least an extension of the suffrage, among the Lib erals.

The new Social Democratic repre sentatives of the Second Chamber are: Victor Larson from Vasteras, F. V. Thorsson from Ystad and Nils Persson from Malmo, all three trades union and Social Democratic leaders. One thing may be considered as sure: if these men want to win other vic-tories in the future with the aid of the Liberal party, they will not prove themselves very dangerous in the Riksdag to the interests of that capitalistic party.

When I see what kind of victories that are won by the Social Democrats of Sweden, I cannot help feel much suspicious of the frequent bulletins of victories for Socialism that are claimed by European Social Democrats. And as with the victories, se with the men and the party that win party writers preferring to write for the papers that represent Bernsteinism and "new tendencies." Kautsky, it was said, used to append to the contributions sent to Neue Zeit provoking footnotes, and so on.

Ever since the international congress in Paris, two years ago, we liave been somewhat scornful here in America of the kind of class consciousness represented by Kautsky, and still, here we see this same Kautsky at a Social Democratic convention in his own country being considered as a representative of the extreme left of its Social Democratic movement!

Hoping the readers will excuse me for this little digression from my sub-ject, I will close with a little neat story from Stockholm. There the Social Democrats a couple of years ago built a labor palace which they call "The House of the People." It cost in the neighborhood of a million of kronor and although all the trades unions of the capital and its vicinity have been taxed to the utmost to erect and complete it, it was very near bankruptcy and ruin last spring. In this sad fix it got help from an unexpected (?) source. One of the breweries of Stockholm made it a donation of 40,000 kronor-on condition that the beer served in the cafes of the building as well as other places where the influence of the unions could be felt, was to be delivered by that brewery exclusively. The offer was accepted with great applause, and so great was the agitation for the beer of that brewery that all the other breweries of the capital experienced great decreases their usual deliverances. Some time went on, and the burden of "The House of the People" commenced to weigh ever harder once And once more there came a savior (or a host of them) from an unexpected source. All the threatened breweries of Stockholm had made concerted effort to get out of the plight they were in, because of the agitation of the unions in favor of their lucky competitor. The result was that about two months ago they announced that they would donate to the House of the People 120,000 kronor, provided the unions would cease the agitation in favor of the one hitherto patronized. The offer was accepted, and as a consequence the Social Democrats still have "The House of the People" in their control Victor Funks.

British Columbian City Very Much Like American Capitalist Cities.

Echoes of the Eighteenth Annual Trades and Labor Congress of Canada & or the Unity that Failed to Unite and Other Matters

The eighteenth annual session of the ides and Labor Congress of Canada sed into history between the 15th and passed into history between the 15th and 16th of last September. This conventicle fignified by the name of a congress, was held at Berlin, Ont., where it was intended that the meaningless farce would be enacted along the usual lines, as laid down in the constitution, viz., "securing the repeal of existing laws, the enactment of new laws, or amendments to existing statutes, in the interest of wage earners," etc. Usually this momentum duty to the working class was an tous duty to the working class was an-qually performed without any outward appearance of mental distraction or lack appearance of mental distraction or lack of unity in the assembly. This time, however, certain influences outside of this august body developed a condition of unrest and discord which resulted in making the congress of so-called representatives of the workers important in the annals of labor history in Canada. What transpired on that occasion it will be the purpose of this article to explain.

In order to arrive at a proper under-

In future we may expect abundant scabbing, along the lines of what happened in Montreal in the boot and shoe trade, to become common. There the National Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, a Canadian organization, was on strike in a certain factory, when the representative of the International Boot and Shoe Workers' Association came on the seep, made arrangements to have and Shoe Workers Association came on the scene, made arrangements to have the factory run by members of his or-ganization, and so scabbed the strikers' jobs. Thus we find the way in which the labor fakir is ever loyal to crooked-ness, and ready to trampie on the con-stiution, which in this case stated "its object shall be to unite all labor organi-zations of the Dominion," etc., * * * "and to further, by every honorable means, the welfare of the working classes." the labor fakir is ever loyal to crooked-

More as the propose of dis article to explain. More than the purpose of dis article to explain. More than the purpose of dis article to explain. More than the purpose of districts which composed the congress, a questrian from Article II of the constitution is necessary. Congress is rather an appendage of a capitalist party, than a body devoted to the advancement of the interests of the people of Canada." This, they stated, applied somewhat largely to the rank and file of the accredited delegates, but more especially to the executive officers and leading spirits of the organization. Then follow the charges against the president, Mr. Ralph Smith, M. P., which state that "he acted as a Liberal that he took the stump in the Liberal in-terests, also that he carried a pass from terests, also that he carried a pass from the Canadian Pacific Railway, and that by so debauching himself he could not be a disinterested champion of labor." The charges wind up with asserting that he is a "henchman of a capitalist party, and accepts favors which may be classed as bribes from a corporation, and so tries to identify the interests of capital and to identify the interests of capital and abor," etc. It was also stated in the newspapers that he was to be appointed Minister of Labor.

Let us note closely the characteristic reply of this chief of pure and simpledom. He begins by stating that "the characters were simply a retrarging of the

From the foregoing brief historical sketch of the character and actions of the leaders of trades unionism in Canada it will be sufficiently plain to readers of The People the nature of that body he the Dominion. In all its bearings it compares favorably for crookedness and sophistry with the trades union move-ment in the United States of America or any other country.
The S. L. P. of Canada has no slight task before it when they essay to lay before the workers of this country correct economic doctrine and sound political advice. At every point they are met and fought by the corrupt labor leader of trades unionism, safely entrenched in the favor of the ruling political parties. With combined effort they strive to prevent any and every ray of class-consciousness from reaching the toiling proletarians of the land. The labor fakir is particularly zealous and watchful in this regard. Yet nevertheless the torch of S. L. P. truth seems to illumine the darkness that has settled over the rank and file of pure and simple unionism in many parts of the land. That is easily gathered from the whine of the president of this late congress at Berlin, Ont. His organization, as already stated, had withdrawn from the congress and left him without credentials, and therefore ineligible for re-election. This changed attitude of his organization he attributed to false information sent from the east to discredit him in the eyes of his fel-low workers. And all according to his version because he labored so hard to convince his union brethren of the only correct action to follow in their own interest, viz., of supporting the Reform Party. He supported the reform party and so did D. J. O'Donohue, Frank Plant, and others, all honorable men, al-though they held office under the gov-ernment (which he would likewise do if he could) and they also labored faithfully in the interests of the workers of the Dominion. But his honeyed council failed to convince the miners of British Columbia, and for his pains he was read

May the light of scientific Socialism burn ever brighter in your ranks, until the darkness which the fakir loves so well to aid him and his well took to completely divadled from evil deeds be completely dispelled from the land! The S. L. P. in view of the development in this congress cannot help feeling greatly encouraged. The in-herent rottenness of Canadian and American trades unions and their help-less efforts will daily become more apparent as the internecine war advances. With two rival trades union organizations warring regarding the correctness of nationalism or internationalism, pol-itics or no politics in unions, arbitration, compulsory or voluntary, etc., intensified as such strife must be by an ever-widening difference on those points, between

Now has come the hour for the S. L.

P. to advance with consciousness of the correctness of the tactics they uphold, having an untarnishable reputation; let uncompromising attitude win the The history of S. L. P. conflict way. The history of S. L. P. conflict in Canada is already made valuable by notable triumphs of steadfastness in the face of the corrupt ruling capitalist political parties in power. The statute books of the Province of Ontario have record of the gallant fights of the S.L.P. in municipal affairs, as the amended Municipal Act now demands that only owners of $1,000 freehold property shall appear upon the ballot paper as can-didates for aldermanic offices. So day-gerous had those propertyless comrades become to the ruling class that they found it necessary to debar them from those privileges. In Dominion elections also a deposit of $200 cash is demanded before the candidate can have his name put before his fellow citizens for the purpose of election. It is also freely talked of as being a necessity to increase the amount of such deposits and also to have the same law applied to Provincial

How true to the S. L. P. sounds the words of the wisest of men, "Money is a defense," but more essential to the militant Socialist to know is the truth that "knowledge is power." That today in Canada the truths of socialistic day in Canada the truths of socialistic doctrine are fast gaining power is undeniable. "To him who hath ears to hear!" many are the hopeful words heard on every hand; words of discontent with existing conditions, and words of hopeful effort along the lines of public ownership. Let the comrades keep con-tinually before the people of this new land not the glory of capitalist prosperity, but the greater peace and hap-piness that the co-operative ownership of the means of production and distri-bution would afford to the working class.

This Dominion in all probability will be subjected to the influences of trusti-fication in a more intensified form than even has been experienced in the United States of America. Already the natural products of the land are in the hands of the friends of the political parties who rule. They have been helped into that ownership by the ignorance of the electorate, and many of them are looked upon as public benefactors, but the rude awakening is sure to follow a la coal strike. Then let us prepare for the hour. Ever increasing ratio is the speed at which capitalism travels, impelled by the blind forces of insatiable avarice. Let the militaris of Canada reprepare the lessons itants of Canada remember the lessons of history of the days long gone, as well as those of later date, and also to-day. That so equipped with the knowledge of history (an essential for the Socialist) every advantage may be gained as occasion offers for the furtherance of the work so much at heart with the com-rades of Canada and the United States.

its Effects Upon Cooperage—What It Reflects Regarding Working Class Conditions.

In the previous article, we showed now capitalist production continually ends towards the cheapening of comdities. We showed how the invenand improvement of machinery as reduced the cooper's trade from ed workmanship to almost meanical routine. But, a more for-idable competitor of the coopers than en the sack industry. The manufac-re of paper, cotton and jute sacks of rious sizes has had a direct pressure on the cooperage industry.

Both the cooper and sack industries re are dependent upon the flour
lis. In the early days of milling y all the flour was packed in bar-but in 1886, two sack factories started here which since then developed immensely, with the that a keen competitive struggle s been going on that has crowded the person to the utmost. While there wer was any danger of the coopers' de being invaded by women and id labor, yet we did cooperage on decline for the very reason that rs indirectly have to compete nen and children in the sack Sacks can be produced much than barrels and the main ause thereof is that women and boys have, so to say, the monopoly on the work in the sack factories. So here we find a separate and distinct indusding out an old established use of the much cheaper wage employed therein. If we are to by the development which has place from 1880 to the present the steady increase in the de-for sacks shows that in the near show the difference of the labor expended on the two products— le and sacks—the following stas and sacks—the following sta-are valuable. The cooper shops meapolis turning out an average at of 2,000,000 barrels a year, em-bout 400 men and boys. The two actories employ about the same of of persons, mostly women of whom are mere girls, a num-boys and some men. Now the actories surn out not only snough these concerns do an extensive busi-ness all over the Northwest. Taking also into consideration the cheaper labor power of the women and youths it is easy to know why the mills are substituting sacks for barrels in eyery instance where it is at all possible.

As the financial condition of the working class is declining year by year, and as the workers are becoming more and more reduced to the actual deed gravitating towards the point of starvation, they have to live altogether from hand to mouth. So scarcely anything is nowadays purchased by the workers in large quantities. This fact is plainly noticeable in the milling in-dustry where the tendency is to put up flour in smaller and even smaller packthe most commonly used to put up the flour for Minneapolis and surrounding towns, where they are entirely sub-stituted for barrels. Now this change in the flour packages is, in turn, working a transformation and will, in time, absolutely revolutionize the packing of flour in the mills. Sack sewing ma es are in progress of perfection and though none have as yet been an absolute success, yet they are so nearly so that any one that has followed the development of machinery at all knows full well that it is but a matter of a short time until they will work like a charm. Far greater problems than that have been solved during cap-italist production. Now, with a power machine to sew sacks and the the packages reduced to 12, 24 and 49 pounds, it is a certainty that cheaper labor can be substituted and the com-petition for work will be keener.

The capitalist system of production is ever lessening the average amount of social labor time required to produce commodities. There are many ways of doing this; for example, the improvement doing this; for example, the improvement of machinery, the intensification of labor, the lowering of wages, the employment of women and children, the substitution of cheaper material, etc. Now, we have attempted to show, with the flour milling and correlated industries as an example, how the production of the commodity flour has been cheapened, i. e., a far less amount of labor nower is expended to amount of labor power is expended to produce a given quantity. It is plain, then, that labor receives a smaller share of the product it produces, for though the money, price or wage paid may be as high as formerly, yet, according to the output, and that is the only way to measure wages, it has been considerably reduced.

The working class must cealing that sacks to supply the mills for the re- labor alone produces all wealth. Now, mainder 12,000,000 barrels of flour, but wages and profits are two of the parts into which this wealth is divided, the larger and ever larger share, profit remaining in the hands of the idle capitalist class, the owners of the mills and factories, while the smaller and ever smaller share, wages, goes to the workers who produce it all. The workers must acquire a knowledge of capital and capitalist production and their relation as a class to the present industrial system. They must comprehend the source of wages and profit, must know who produces it all, and who gets it all.

Only the study of Socialism can clear the worker's vision so that he can com-prehend things as they really are and not as they may seem. To repeat the illus-tration given in "What Means This Strike?": "If we go on the top of a high building and see the sun rise in the morning it looks as if the sun moves and the earth stands still. But this is an optic illusion as scientists prove, that it is the earth that moves while the sun stands still. Such is also the relation between the workers and the capitalists. Apparently, the capitalist is the benefactor and were it not for his skill, brain and business capacity, the whole working class would go to ruin and desolution; but to the contrary, the Socialist scientists prove that were it not for the working class, its skill, its strength and inventive genius, its tenacity and determination, the capitalist and the capitalist system of production would be buried in Democratic "Trust Buster" Throws Bouquets at Steel Trust Labor Skinners.

Special to The Daily People.

Eveleth, Minn., Oct. 13 .- The Democratic party is a huge fraud. This is true as far as it concerns the attitude it usually assumes toward the working class, viz., friendship, and as representative of antagonism to "trusts." "encroachments of capital."

An incident in point clearly shows the real character of this party-the visiting of Rosing's Democratic candidate for the office of governor of Minnesota, to the iron mining district of Northern Minnesota.

With him were a large number of candidates for various offices and a horde of politicians, who, together vis ited all the mining towns in a special car furnished by the D. & I. R. and D. M. & N., which are controlled by the U. S. Steel Trust. Rosing, the representative of the party which claims it stands for the people, as against everything that spells "trusts," "capital," was profuse in his thanks for the courtesy shown him by these very capitalistic interests, which controls absolutely the fate of this mining disabsorbed the late of this mining dis-trict. In return he gave this capitalist interest marked attention; with every new utterance of "delight" giving as-surance that "capital" need fear nothing radical from him if elected. What else can such expression of "delight" mean? For instance:

"We were given a very cordial reception at the range towns by both Democrats and Republicans," said Mr. Rosing. "The trip has left a very delightful impression in my mind, and I appreciate more than ever the wonderful resources of St. Louis county. note that the mining companies maintain no company stores. They pay their men in cash and they are free to board where they please and trade where they may be able to do so to the best advantage. I was pleased to ob serve that this system prevails. It is a splendid way. Note well the passage "I appreciate more than ever the wonderful resources of St. Louis county." which when divested of its ambiguousness, means simply this: "I now have a good idea of the enormous wealth being robbed from the class that produces it, and I assure you I shall do nothing to prevent you from the skin game; when elected depend on me for assistance."

He is "delighted" because there are no company stores. According to the Mining and Engineering Journal, August 15, the average wage of the Eveleth miners is $2.08 a day; for this they must endure ten hours of slavery in underground tunnels, surrounded by all the dangers of that work; every day dozens of men are taken to hospitals injured by premature blasts, cave-ins, or killed by blasts and dashed down dizzy depths with a treacherous ledge of ore

The sanitary conditions of the minecapitalist-controlled St. Louis county towns are rank. At present a typhoid epidemic is raging in Eveleth, with victims filling the cemetery, simply be-cause the town officials who are the henchmen of the mine capitalist dare not alter the conditions or say a word. fearing to loose their prestige as

Of course Rosing is "delighted," but of the real condition and slavery of the working class he is mum. Why? Because he stands for capitalism every time, despite the taffy to the workers about the "trusts," and the capitalist class knows it. Else why should he receive "delightful" treatment and special cars? Every workingman who is-tired of being robbed of his product will vote for Thomas Van Lear date of the Socialist Labor Party for governor of Minnesota.

A Grand Work . .

A grand display of energy has been shown by the readers of The Weekly People, in getting subscriptions for The Monthly People, the new publication of the Socialist Labor

-All agree that it is easy to get readers at the low price of Ten Cents per year.

Several readers of The Weekly People, who live in isolated places, have written, that The Monthly People will fill a long-felt want, as they kope through it to increase the number of Socialists in their localities.

One man writes that factories in his town being closed down, he found it difficult to get readers for The Weekly People, but he sends in a list for The Monthly.

It is a good plan to start as many readers as possible with the first number. We will print several thousand additional copies of the October issue, so that in sending in lists after October 15, you can count on readers getting the first number.

Let everybody hustle. Those who haven't sent in a list should start out at once to gather names. Those who have already sent in lists should try for more. An intelligent inauguration of the next social change rests with us. To the work, everybody!

BEVERIDGE BUNCOING THE WORKERS.

Republican United States Senator Beveridge of Indiana, addressing a meeting at Bridgeport, Conn., classified the trust evils as follows: raising of prices to consumers, the reduction of wages, and over-capitalization. The Senator from Indiana declared these evils are being operated upon by forces outside of legislation. Organized labor was particularly curing the second evil. "More power to the arm of organized labor," was the invocation of this representa tive of plutocratic capitalism.

If "the forces outside of legislation" are acting as efficiently on the other two evils as organized labor is acting on that of wage-reductions, then the enre of trust evils outside of legislation is hopeless. A slight consideration of the census figures will prove to the most enthusiastic friend of organized labor that wages are continually being reduced and that Beveridge's statements are simply made to bunco the workers in the interests of capitalism and the pure and ple unions that are preserving it intact by preventing the workers from seeking legislative remedy from the trust through political action on class-conscious Socialist lines.

If the census figures are consulted it will be found that while the average on of each worker has been ineased ten per cent., the average wages of each worker has decreased two per at, during the decade of 1890-1900.

That this intensification of production at decreased wages has not abated any since 1900 the facts in the strike of the coal miners and the threatened strikes of railroad employees make clear. The facts in the miners' case show that though they had increased the daily output of coal per man from 2.16 to 2.36 ons, or ten per cent. more a day, they did not receive a proportionate increase in wages over the scale of 1901. The railroad employees in the freight service have had their labor increased one-fifth in seven years, while their wages have mained the same as that to which they ere reduced during the "hard times"

These facts ought to make clear to the workers that when such a source as the which is notoriously manipulated in the interest of the capitalist class, pictures such a decline in working class wages as that shown by the figures quoted above, the actual condition of r is really worse. These facts ought to show to the workers that the Republinator from Indiana and the labor fakirs of this country are playing into gressive Labor," "Workmen's," and other each other's hands for the purpose of parties which sprung up during that enting working-class legislation and

Those figures finally ought to show to the workers the necessity of throwing bunco-steerers of capitalism, whether they are Republican senators from In diana, or plain every-day labor fakirs, overboard, metaphorically speaking. se figures ought to show the necessity of the working class marching to the allot box and by voting the Socialist Labor Party into power, seize the powers of State and legislate on class-conscious lines to make the trusts social property. eserving capitalism intact.

THE INITIATIVE AND REFEREN-DUM AND SWITZERLAND'S GENERAL STRIKE

For years it has been proclaimed in this country that in order to secure political freedom and economic justice, it is necessary to lnaugurate the initiative and referendum. With the adoption of would become unknown and the social problem solved. Switzerland, it is contended, has demonstrated the possibilities of this method and proven all that is daimed for it. erland, however, is making h ry that proves the contrary. It has just had a general strike. That strike is ed collapsed. During it six persons victims of the armed militia and 280 were arrested and 120 de-General estrikes, e arrests and deportations do estantiate the claims of political affirming the passage of laws.

The fact is that the initiative and re ferendum is powerless to alter or change capitalism unless it is intelligently used by the working class in its interests.

In Switzerland, where capitalism is not as intensely developed as in this country and class demarcations are, consequently, not as pronounced or emphatic, the initiative and referendum preserves a greater semblance of democracy than it could here, owing to the class distinctions existing here. But this general strike shows that even in Switzerland it will no longer avail the working class, if continued to be used regardless of class distinctions, as at present.

The Switzerland general strike was caused by the importation of an American manager for the Geneva Tramway Company. This manager Introduced American methods in his efforts to increase the company's dividends. The men struck, others sympathetic joined the strike. Thereupon the government responded by pursuing American methods too, only it improved upon them by adding deportation to shooting, clubbing and arrest. Despite its democratic origin it acted capitalistically and in the advanced manner of the advanced capitalism imported into its country.

The lesson from all this is plain: the initiative and referndum is no good unless coupled with class-conscious Socialism Unless the working class first understand its class interests and work intelligently for them, the initiative and referendum will simply be another means by which it binds its own chains. With its class interests understood the initiative and referendum will be a means of working class liberation. Socialism first, the initiative and referendum after.

THE TRUE POLITICAL EVOLUTION OF LABOR.

There is a theory to the effect that class-conscious workmen's political party cannot be developed independently of the pure and simple trades unions and that if such a party would thrive and flourish it must be evolved out of such unions.

Despite its scientific phraseology this theory is not otherwise scientific. It is not in accord with facts. It is not honest. It is but an excuse for shirking an unpleasant and unprofitable task, and for engaging in log rolling and political corruption. When a lot of political aspirants of the two old parties in the unions want rec ognition they form an "Economic League" or a "Union Labor Party," as did the Democrat, "Labor" Mayor Sullivan, of Hartford, Conn., and the Repub lican, "Labor" Mayor Schmitz, of San Francisco, Cal., respectively; and get a lot of trades unions and corrupt "socialists" to support them. This is called "the political evolution of labor"; but there is no evolution about it. These political aspirants and their supporters are bought out by the two old parties, their "parties" collapse, capitalism continues to prevail, while trades-unlonism and 'socralism' are reorganized again into another "independent labor party" and the old programme is gone through once more. This is not progress. It is simply travelling around in a circle. That this periodic performance is either evolution nor progression, a review of the political movements associated with trades unionism in this country during the past twenty-five years will testify. Such a review will show that despite all the "Economic Leagues," "Union Labor," "United Labor," "Properiod, not to mention "the labor el ment" in the "Liberal," "Social" and "Rudical". Democracies, labor is no nearer emancipation and socialism no nearer realization than at the outset.

Such "progress" is not the genuine progress which was made in Germany. for instance, by the Lassallians and the Internationalists by a campaign of opposition to the prevailing workmen's organizations of their time. The Progressist Party, under Schultze-Delitzsch, organized the workingmen into benefit, credit supply and manufacturing co-operative societies, for the purpose duf esecuring their support. Ferdinand Lassalle organized "the General Society, of German Workingmen" in opposition to Schultze-Delitzsch, with the result that he dug strained or busted, by the legal actions the graves of Schultze-Delitzsch's organizations, together with their bogus labar reforms. When "the International Association of Workmen" was formed by Liebnecht, it was formed in opposition to the organization created by Lassalle, method it is claimed that strikes the principles of which were loosely applied. This opposition caused considerable friction between both organizations and was only ended by the Bismarckian persecutions which forced the two organizations to unite. This policy of opposition to labor organizations based on auti-socialist principles-this boring from without-was continued after the union of the Lassallians and the Internationalists until it can be said to-day that socialism controls the trades organizations of Germany. This policy of opposition has permeated the socialist movements of Continental Europe to such an extent that whenever possible opposition organiza-

ness the struggles between the Anarchists and the Socialists in Spain and other countries. Only in England was this policy pooh-hooed, and it is only in England, that the trades-union movement is thoroughly capitalist and anti-socialist.

From the facts cited from the experience of trades-unionism and socialism in class-conscious workmen's political movement cannot be developed independently of the pure and simple union and that if such a party would thrive and flourish it must be evolved out of such unious, is shown to be unscientific and dishonest. It is equivalent to saying that to go around in a circle is evolution and progress. It is equivalent to saying that Lassalle did right to bury the Schultze-Delitzsch type of workingmen's organization, but we must not touch-oh, horrors, no!-the unions of the Hanna-Gompers type, which are much worse in their blighting effects on working class aspirations and conditions.

Workingmen, out on such frauds! Stop travelling in rings, starting out from the malodorous old political parties and going through the swamps of bogus socialism, only to end in the dirty place from whence you started. Strive for true evolution and progress. Join the Socialist Trade and Labor Alliance and vote the ticket of the Socialist Labor Party. Only in this way can true trades-unionism and so cialism be attained.

THE GIANT BEEF TRUST AND THE FALLACIES IT EXPLODES.

Yesterday the yellow Journal was compelled to swallow a bitter pill. It made faces while doing so.

The yellow Journal, as is well known befools its readers by instituting legal actions against trusts. By this method it hopes to demonstrate that it is partially or wholly possible to curb trusts by legislative enactment and enforcement, a la the Democratic party. Its aim is to win working class confidence and votes for that party.

One of the yellow Journal's recent actions was against the Beef Combine. Did it succeed in that action? Did it, as it brazenly claimed in its columns win a victory over that combine? Did it prove that trusts can be legally curbed, restrained and "busted?"

Take up its issue of yesterday, October 17, and read its leading article on page one. That article starts thusly: "Beef Trust Gets Its License to Rob.

Incorporated in Jersey City Yesterday. It Has Power to Stiffe Competition in Almost Every Article of Food."

Then the article proceeds to show at despite rumors to the contrary the giant beef trust has been incorporated at Trenton. Its name is the United States Packing Company, its nominal capital $1,000,000, which may be increased to $500,000,000; while its financial sponsor is John D. Rockefeller.

Regarding the objects of the beef trust, the yellow Journal says:

"The new trust includes every living thing that walks, flies or swims.

"It aims not, only to drive out all dealers in animal foods, but it plans to breed the animals and drive to bankruptcy the owners of the great cattle ranches of the far West.

'It plans to dredge the sea for fishes and thus do away with the humble and picturesque fisherman, whose life is one continued chapter of heroism.

"It preempts the air for its own, as well as the land and the sea.

"Its charter empowers it to buy, sell breed and deal in cattle, sheep, poultry, game, fish and all kinds of livestock.'

"By another clause of the charter it authorized to 'build, purchase, or establish markets and butcher shops, and deal in all kinds of meat, poultry, game and fish and other things incident to the meat and poultry or fish trade.'

"In plain language, the new combine may establish butcher shops, and practically grocery stores, in every city, town and village in the country. It can also buy any such business already established. It will sell butter, eggs and cheese."

"License to rob," "has power to stifle competition in almost every article of food," "the new trust includes every living thing that walks, flies or swims" -these are not phrases that show that the beef trust has been curbed, reinstituted against its constituent companies when they formed the Beef Combine. Making due allowance for their yellow Journal sensationalism and for the Democratic desire to stampede the middle class into voting its ticket, those phrases show that the yellow . Journal is simply fooling its working class readers and that it is playing a game in which the working class are the losers.

Trusts cannot be curbed, restrained or busted by legal enactment and enforcement. This has been demonstrated in Republican New Jersey and in Democratic Toxas. No matter how drastic the law may be on paper, it is as nothing in fact. This experience has proven, and it has been proven under Republican and Democratic administrations alike.

There is only one remedy for the the day!

to Switzerland's method of initiating and | tions of labor have been formed, as wit- | trust: It must be owned by society according to the lines laid down by class conscious socialism. There is no other way.

> It therefore behooves the working class to turn a deaf ear to the pretences of the yellow Journal and smite it, together with both the Democratic and the Republican parties, and give their support to their own class papers, The Daily, Weekly and Monthly People, and their votes to their own class party-the Socialist Labor Party.

THE END OF THE COAL STRIKE. The coal operators' offer to arbitrate the strike which has been accepted by the United Mine Workers' Union, with slight modifications, is a victory for the interests which they represent. for the interests which they represent. The offer provides for the appointment of a commission of men dependent on, and favorable to, capitalist interests, and thus ignores the working class interests involved. It demands that the strikers return to work immediately pending settlement and thus makes no concessions It requires that all questions at issue be tween the companies and their employes whether union or non-union, shall be re ferred to this commission, and thus re fuses to recognize the union. It main tains the operators' right to retain and employ non-union men, and thus puts 17,000 strikers, whose places have been filled, out of work, and gives the operators power to discharge unionists as fast as non-unionists can be found to fill their places. It is an absolute insistence upon all that they have demanded and does not yield a jot to the strikers.

The same practical results will flow from the acceptance of the coal operators' offer as flowed from the arbitration of the Boston teamsters' and the San Francisco ironworkers' strikes. In those strikes the same principles of arbitration prevailed, with the favorable exception to the strikers that they were directly repre sented on the arbitration boards appointed by the Civic Federation. In those strikes, the strikers waived their demands pend ing a settlement, which has not yet come. Hundreds of their numbers, especially the most active and aggressive, were discharged, while the employers availed themselves of the liberty to hire non-union men by replacing the strikers who returned with men who worked at less wages. This was notably the case in the Boston Teamsters' strike. With such precedents before the working class, it may be safely concluded that the acceptance of the coal operators' offer to arbitrate is a victory for them and a defeat for the working class.

That the acceptance of the coal operators' offer should prove a defeat for labor is not surprising. Nothing else can happen under Arbitration. Arbitration is a device to recoucile the irreconcilable interests of Capital and Labor. It, accord ngly, can only thrive by deception. But Arbitration is especially a farce in the coal miners' strike. Whatever it may have been at the outset the coal miners strike long ago ceased to be a labor strug-For many months it has been struggle for markets between the soft and hard coal interests and railroads. one side were the soft coal interests, led by Mark Hanna and President Cassatt, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company On the other were the hard coal opera tors and their roads. John Mitchell, the President of the United Mine Workers as in frequent consultation with Mark Hanna and his political associates. organization has been significantly characterized by the coal operators as "an organization chiefly composed of men in rival and competitive interest." the strike was not a struggle between the struggle between the coal trust and the retailers, many of whom were crowded to the wall; and between Republican factions and the Democratic party. As a struggle between the soft and hard coal interests and between the coal trust and the retailers, it redounded to the interest of the capitalist class. Both the soft and the hard coal prices went soaring and millions of profits were reaped as result, while the coal trade was more closely concentrated in the interests the coal trust. As a fight between the Republican factions it redounded to the loss of prestige by Roosevelt and the triumph of Hanna, while the Democratic party made much capital of it by its demagogic demand for the government ownership of the anthracite mines. was the latter fact, together with the vigorous discussion of the social question which the strike precipitated, that most likely brought about the settlement. Pressure was brought to bear for the purpos of keeping plutocratic capitalism politi-cally and economically intact. Whatever way it may be looked at, there can be but ne verdict, and that is that the coal strike has failed in securing any benefits for the miner and that it has been a source of advantage and profit to the warring capi talist interests and to the two old politi-cal parties. To the party of plutocracy, the Republican party, especially will the advantage be greatest, as it will reap the credit of having "settled" the strike.

The working class will continue to suf-fer such defeats and have their struggles redound to the economic and political interests of their master so long as they are ed by pure and simple trades union tactics and principles. These principles rec-ognize that capital and labor are one and that the capitalist system is a finality. They favor arbitration and useless tink ering with the system that grinds them down. Relief can only come when labor recognizes that its interests are antagon stic to those of capital and that the capitalist system is an evolution which must way to the Socialist Republic. Reief can only come when labor organize to overthrow the capitalist system both litically and economicaly.

Reading recently an article in one of the popular magazines that devote cousiderable space to the justification and the puffing of the imaginary excellencies of those who have accumulated millions by the robbery of Labor, we encountered one period in his career the oil magnate Rockefeller, through overspeculation, was brought to the verge of bankruptcy. In the relation of the incident it was stated that his wife expressed the wish that the termination of his business career might be accomplished; for then, she stated, it would be possible for him to enjoy a good night's sleep, something that was impossible during the excitements of business ventures.

This anecdote in itself is apparently of trivial account; but taken altogether with certain other Munchausenisms, we encounter a class of fables the purposes of which are to full the working people to quietude under oppression, with the delusion that there are many advantages of life that are the peculiar possessions of the toilers, and that there are many ills that those who pursue a life of labor are

The whole tenor of these apologies for the contrast between excessive wealth among the idlers and excessive poverty among the industrious is that wealth brings with it so much worry that its possessor is unable to sleep soundly; that the possessor of wealth does not enjoy the robust health that the workingman is accused of reveling in. In fact, the impression is sought to be conveyed that there is a compensating balance in the distribution of the good things of life, and, if anything, the workingman has through physical superiority, and that consequently it would be unwise for the laborer to seek to participate in the wealth that brings added cares and worry, and which would deprive him of the delightful privilege of being overworked to the point where he is so completely tired out that he is almost asleep he reaches his home after his day's la-

There is a ghastliness in these attempts convince the workers that they are the fortunate possessors of material advantages, that becomes apparent as soon as we probe below the surface. It may that wealth is a source of anxiety. but it is a source of a thousand times more anguish to those who possess it not than it ever cap be to those who have it in abundance. The lives of the working people are a series of continual tragedies in battling against pauperdom, and while it may be so, although we doubt it much, that those who possess great wealth are sometimes restless on that account, they do not show any symptoms of their uneasiness in their well-fed looking carcases or their florid complexions.

On the other hand, the poor unfortunates who are haunted by store bills, by rent bills, by doctor bills, and who can not compass the wherewithal to meet their obligations, they are restless, they are uneasy, they turn and toss on a sleepless bed from anxiety as to how their family shall be tided over the black swamp of pauperdom; they show the worry of wealth in their harried and bowed down lives. Yes, we will admit that wealth is the cause of much trouble and irritation, but the horrors visit not those who have the wealth, but those who have it not.

It is well understood, of course, that a certain amount of physical exertion is essential to the bodily well-being; but it is equally well understood that excessive exertion is as detrimental as sufficient exertion is beneficial. The pitied people of wealth obtain their physical exercise combined with pleasure in yachting, dancing, pony polo, horse and automobile riding, golf, hunting, travel and a thousand and one other delightful, varying and pleasurable means. If they weary of deep-sea fishing their drooping energies are revived by the excitements of hunting large game ashore; if the mountain pleasures become monotonous they hie themselves to the senside; if the calm and peace of country villas produce a spirit of loneliness they enter the gaie ties of city life, listen to the world's sweetest singers, feast upon the works of art of the world's most gifted children. Their lives are rounded out with bountiful variety that precludes any danger of weariness or the sameness of existence. If one looks upon them as they take their exercise spins and drives through the boulevards it will be difficult to detect any indication in their appearance that their wealth interferes a full and rounded physical development.

The average of their lives is twenty years greater than those of the toilers who are expected to believe that the life of labor is the ideal for healthfulness.

When we turn from the observation of the wealthy engaged in their sports and pastimes, and behold the lives of the toilers, monotonously and wearily performing the same dull routine and slavery from childhood to the grave; when understand that the nourishment of the worker is seldom adequate to the tasks that he must perform; when we realize the dreariness and lack of variety that distinguishes the working class existence; when we know the diseases and sicknesses to which the working class is subjected by their very occupations; when we contrast the bodies and countenances of a group of workers with those of a group of dividend eaters, we can arrive at an appreciation of the barefaced fraud that would assert that health and peace of mind are the resultants of a life of unrequited labor.

If we look to the animal world and behold the sleekness of coat, the fire and life and spirit of, say, a horse that gets proper exercise and care, and compare him with the jaded and worn animal who is overworked on the docks or elsewhere excessively, we can grasp the relation be tween the workingman of to-day and those whose grip upon the instruments of labor enable them to use the lash that drives the industrious beyond the powers of healthful capability. strate that there are some advantages to the fact that as industry is conducted o-day the man who creates wealth by his industry, gets the worst of the arrange nent at every stage of the process .- Tex tile Worker.

In our correspondence column appears a letter exposing the mental and mora calibre of the candidate for Lieutenant Governor on the "Socialist," cial Democratic ticket, the Rev. Thurston Brown. This candidate approves of "re-lentless logic," as applied to capitalist parties, but not to his own. Comrade De Leon, analyzing capitalist economics by the light of ascertained facts, provethem unable to help the working class. Analyzing the "Socialist" pretences to be labor party by the light of ascertained facts, also, that is, by their record, he finds that they are frauds and aids of the capitalist class. But the Rev. Brown, who can see "the relentless logic one case, cannot see it in the other And this is the Brown who goes about teaching the necessity of "infinite good-ness," as though "infinite goodness" could issue from such finite rottenness.

The Albany Press, Knickerbocker and Express prints the following: "POLITICAL NOTES.

"Mr. Walter S. Kennedy, the Greater New York Democracy nominee for as sembly in the Fifth district, has the endorsement of the Democratic-Labor party and the Socialist Labor Party, as well as a number of labor and social organiand Spanish element. Mr. Kennedy is well known in Albany, having relatives in the South Eud."

This statement, in so far as it relates to the Socialist Labor Party, is false and cannot be too strongly denied. The Socialist Labor Party has candidates of its own in the Fifth Assembly District, Kings, and the Fifth Assembly District. New York, both of which are in Greater New York. Harry Teichlouff and Herman Eckstein are their respective names Further, neither assembly district has endorsed Kennedy, or any one e.sc. The conflict of private interests which capitalism breeds had another ghastly demonstration in the triple murder which occurred in the Broad street law office Friday. W. C. Turner, accused of overdrawing his accounts poration in which he and William J. Mallard and Albert Hamilton were in terested, retorts that the deficit is covred by his original contribution to the reasury of the corporation. This being denied, and he being pressed to make restitution or go to jail—the first of which he could not do, the second of which he did not want to do-he ends the whole matter by slaying his business associates and himself. Such crimes are not known in the early communism known in the socialism of the future. Where interests are private and con-flict there crime is bound to be bred. Murder flourishes in the family-as in the case of the Ford murder, and in the business affairs of men, as proved by Turner's triple murder. There is only one way out of the horror, and that is to abolish capitalism, which breeds it.

The important retail tobacco dealers of this city are getting frightened. They are being approached by agents who offer to purchase their businesses. Failing in this they threaten to open stores in competition with them. The stores in competition with them. important retail tobacco dealers regard this as an attempt of the tobacco trust to absorb their business. They are convinced that the trust is operating through the United Cigar Stores Co. with this end. A meeting will be held to conseder plans to block trust absorntion. The tobacconists are certainly up against it. They will most likely be forced into a fight similar to that existing in Chicago and other large cities between the retailers and the to-bacco trust. And they most likely will have as little success. The small man is doomed in distribution, just as well as production. Capitalism in its search for new fields of investment is beginning to organize distribution in a way that will produce a revolution with which the small man cannot keep pace.

A new word has been added to our language by the downtown element. It's "Scrunger." and applies to those who will not help an embarrassed per-son with a loan. Downtown, especially Wall street, must be full of scrungers. Down there they grow rich on the embarrassment not only of friends, but the entire social organism. They manufacture wheat corners, strikes to influence the stock market, bogus corporations and other devices to create panic and embarrassment whereby they might profit. It was no accident that caused downtown to be the birthplace of the scrunger; it's full of them.

The Waring Hat Manufacturing Company of Yonkers is reported as heading a combination of hat manufacturers who intend to protect their interests against unions. Judging from the way the United Hatters of North America permitted Waring to win the recent strike in their factory, the employes and not the employers need to combine for protection against the unions Coal strike echoes are numerous. The retailers are going to wage "an aggressive campaign against the trust for stealing its customers," at least that's what they say. Where they are going to get the coal from with which to do it, depouent saith not.

Trouble is feared in the anthracite regions, as all the strikers will not be taken back to work. The operators insist that they will keep the 17,000 scabs whom they employed during the strike. Despite this the miners say they won in their Mark Hanna strike!

JONATHAN.

BROTHER JONATHAN-I and some other reformers, I mean those who advocate public ownership of railroads, street cars, etc., were holding discussion the other day. A man in the audience broke in upon us with the following question: "But how do you propose to get possession of those properties, which are tied up with charters, deeds and every conceivable kind of legal protection! do you intend to confiscate them "

UNCLE SAM-What answer did they make?

B. J .- They answered "No!" then the man went on to say: "The value of these railroads, etc., of the country represents about $10,000,000,000; do you propose to buy them; are you ready to tax yourselves to this amount?

U. S .- I guess the same "No!" oozed out of the capitalist brains. B. J .- Yes; and don't you really think that this squarely knocked Socialism out in two rounds?

U. S. (bristling up) Socialism "knocked Not much! Do you know who those were who called themselves Socialists and were knocked out? B. J .- Why, Socialists, I thought, U. S .- Nary! They were a lot of middle class folks. You must remember that this middle class stands upon the principle of private ownership in the instruments of production. They were reared upon capitalism. That being so, this class stands upon very slippery ground when they attempt to avoid or escape the ogical consequences of capitalism. Their desire to remove monopolies is one of those vain attempts. When, consequently, they meet a logical and consistent capitalist like that man who asked questions their fur is made to fly; their mouths are quickly stopped; they are bound to recoil before their own propositions; in short, they are rolled, or "knocked out," as you put it, in short order. B. J.-But what would a Socialist have auswered?

U. S .- The Socialist could have given this capitalist questioner a series of clinching answers that would have made him look very silly and even sent him to bed with a bellyache.

B. J.-I'd like to hear some of them. U. S.-If the Socialist happened to be in a statistical and bantering mood he would have answered: "Yes, we mean to buy all those things, that is to say, we mean to pay for them. But if a man from whom you buy anything is debtor you will first deduct the debt he wes you and pay him the balance only.

B. J.-That is what I would do. U. S.-Very well. The Socialist would have continued thusly: "We would first appraise the things, watered stock being first squeezed out"-at this point the capitalist questioner's jaw would begin

B. J. (brightening up) Guess so; good! U. S.-The Socialist would have gone "Then we would estimate all debts due the Government by the owners of those things; all the debts they have dodged; all the fines they should have paid for violations of law, etc., etc. After that much arithmetic and statistics there may possibly be left a nickel due the owners of those things, and we shall be quite able to, and will cheerfully

B. J .- Bully. That tune sounds very different from the one that questioner

U. S .- Exactly. But the Socialist might have been in a wicked mood; in that case he would have let statistics go and answered thusly, to wit: "Sir; did the North buy the slaves it set free during and after the war? Did the North tax itself to pay them off? Did the American Revolutionary fathers tax themselves to pay King George? Nary! They said slavery is wrong; the slave-holder is a criminal and a rebel; away with his negro slaves; and these were set without further ado: 'These colonies are

B. J. (clapping his hands) Better yet! U. S .- The Socialist would further an swer: "Our Revolutionary Fathers said and of right ought to be free,' and they sent King George, his cousins, his sisters and his aunts, together with his colonial Governors and pursuivants, kit-ng across the water." B. J .- And no mistake! U. S .- By the time the Socialist got so far your capitalist questioner would have peen seized with the cramps and would not have been in a condition to hear the Socialist proceed saying: "The Declaration of Independence establishes the principle that when a social institution ceases to promote the welfare of the people, these have the right and duty to abolish it, or to so alter it that its foundations may be most likely to effect their safety and happiness. We propose to abolish it and rear in its stead the Cooperative Commonwealth, the Socialist Republic. Get from under!" B. J.-By Jove! There are no flies on Socialism. He who comes up against it comes up against a buzz-saw. U. S .- And don't you forget it. The knocking out that is done when a cialist is around is done by the Socialist himself, with the other fellow filling the rele of knocker-outee.

The Rev. Thurston Brown's "Infinite odness" Shown to Be Finite Rottenness.

To The Daily and Weekly People.-Last Sunday afternoon, Comrade De Leon spoke to the best audience we have had for some time. The chairman, Com-rade Gidley, after a short speech, intro-duced the S. L. P. candidate for governor, Daniel De Leon, who explained very clearly the law of exchange value. The excellent manner in which he handled this usually dry subject was a treat to all present. De Leon showed the duplicity of the democrats, regular, liberal, horseshoe and social. A few of the latter gentry were present; one of them being a no less light than their candidate for Lieutenant-Governor, Rev. Thurston Brown, who took the medicine without saying a word in reply. We were not aware, at the time, that we had so distinguished a visitor. The marsupials felt very sore at being classed with the Rev. Brown was billed to speak her Monday evening, so the comrades here returned the visit. The kangs had a very slim sudience. When the writer of this entered the hall the reverend gentleman was telling how embarassed he felt (he saw the arm and hammer brigade in the eaw the arm and hammer brigade in the rear of the hall) at having to speak to men who were already converted to Socialism. His subject was: Should the trusts own the people, or should the people own the trusts, which? He made an awful mess of it. He may know a little of the lower and "infinite goodness." little of theology and "infinite goodness," but he did not show that he knew much out ae did not show that he knew much of Socialism. Referring to 'De Leon's speech of the day before, Brown had nothing but praise for his masterly analysis of capitalist production and his "relentiess logic." He acknowledged he had profited by it, and I should think he did. De Leon's analysis of the decay did. De Leon's analysis of the decy duck party, and the labor fakir, however, did not please him so much. It is estimated by local politicians that $15,000 was spent by Gardner to secure the nominations. The second is entitled "Senator Dodge on Vulgar Display." This is full of meat, as it shows the hypocrisy of Dodge, he denounced the use of money in elections while his son-in-law secured his nomination by just such means.

BRIBERY CHARGES MADE IN HAVERHILL. Leaders in Labor Unions Accused of

bribes, corruption and degradation of citizenship, are some of the accusations that are flying through the air in this city, between the members the three unions here as an aftermath of the recent congressional contest between Gardner and Shaw, says a Haverhill dispatch to the Boston Advertiser this morning.

The organizations involved are the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, the Shoe Workers' Protective Union and the Lasters' Union. The last body, nowever, is now practically out of the trouble.

The charge that has wrought up the unions is that certain members during the Shaw-Gardner campaign accepted money as bribes, supposedly for the made public was taken. In the Lasters' Union there was a protracted discuss after which it was announced that the member accused of receiving $200 had been completely exonerated of the charges

But at the shoe council of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union things were more strenuous. There was much dis-cussion, and demands came from all sides that no guilty man should escape. Unanimously resolutions were adopted to the effect that a committee of five should be appointed to investigate the charges that had been made. It was resolved to kondemn all persons who had been party to receiving money as a bribe in this case, as the good name of the union was at stake as being party to an "infamous attempt to degrade tenship by an attempt of purchase and bribery.'

committee of five has been at pointed with power to expend money to secure legal and elerical services, to sum-mon witnesses both from and out of the union, and, in general to take those steps that would constitute a most thorough inquiry.

In the public talk there are plenty who claim to know who the men are who are accused. They are all well known, and when the hearing comes off, it will be in a large degree sensational.

Agent Scates of the shoe council, asserts that the council is unanimous that the guilt shall be fixed where it belongs and that his union shall wipe the present stain off its record.

II. SENATOR LODGE ON VULGAR DISPLAY.

Wealth a Great Peril When Used to

May Produce an Anarchy.

Close observers of the recent congre sional campaign—or rather the campaign for the congressional nomination—will be amused to read excerpts from Senator Lodge's address at the dedication of Clark College, Worcester, Thursday, Senator Lodge is Capt. A. P. Gardner's father-in-law.

In his remarks Senator Lodge referred to the responsibilities of wealth and the possibility that vast accumulations of money are a menace to society. He said: "If the holders of immense fortunes lose sight of the responsibilities which this great wealth brings they become, in my judgment, the greatest source of danger which our modern times afford. these great fortunes are administered with a due sense of responsibility to the community, whose laws have made their accumulation possible, they will not only be beneficent, but they will be a bulwark of liberty, of order, and of progress.

"When wealth expends in a single evening upon a vuigar, brainless cutertain-ment an amount of money the income of which would mean affluence to thousands of families; when it is used to promot corners in the necessities of life, or for desperate gambling in the stock market, when it is engaged in an effort to de bauch elections or control legislatures; when it considers that everything is for sale, legislatures and courts, public of-fices, the honesty of men and the honor of women, it is hard to over-estimate the peril which it portends. "When so used and sought only for its own sake, it puts weapons into the hands through envy, malice, ig norance or misfortune seek the overthro of society and to produce the anarchy which would return men to the savage state from which they have so painfully climbed upward.

"But when wealth realizes the responsi-bilities, it is a protection and a strength."

deplored at the time that that man should be so foolish as to expect finan cial aid for a working class movement from the very enemies of that class But with time our views changed. and their later allies, the Kangaroos, ently Debs had acted in that early move of his. For a political, organization that can take or is endeavoring to take under its protecting wings that scab crew which claims that labor and capital are brothers, there is not the least bit of inconsistency in asking for financial support from a Rockefeller or other labor fleecers. But their consistency could be carried still further: have been consistent enough to vote for armory appropriations, so now they ought to send their circular let-ters, appealing for financial aid to the militia companies throughout the country instead of sending them to members of the S. L. P.

During the summer and fall I have received several such appeals, but, of course, left them unheeded. But the last one made me write an answer, and as they may prove interesting reading. I enclose both the circular letter and a of my reply to its author, one L. M. Holman of Minneapolis, Minn. Above the letterhead of the typewritten sheet is printed the well known, but in this case ill-used, appeal to the workers: "Workingmen of all countries, unite! etc." .The letter reads as

Minneapolis, Minn., August 16, 1902. To the Comrades and Friends of Socialism:

The State Campaign Committee of the Social Democratic party wishes to call your attention to the great need of finances for carrying on our proed aggressive campaign. Comrade G. H. Lockwood, who has charge of the wagon, has been doing excellent work for the cause and it would be a very unfortunate thing for Socialism in this State if we should have to lose his valuable services. The State Com-mittee is now indebted to Comrade Lockwood on salary to August 6, $27.40, and on cost of wagon, $98.03. Comrade Lockwood has sacrificed his material interest to the cause, giving his entire time to Socialism at the small salary of $10 per week, he paying the expense of keeping the horse.

Now, comrades, to speak plainly, if we wish to continue Comrade Lockwood in the field funds must be forthcoming at once or he will be obliged to seek a larger field. Can the Minne-sota comrades stand idly by and let the cause of Socialism suffer in this State for want of a few paltry dollars? We think not. Therefore, comrades, we make our most earnest appeal to you for liberal and immediate financial support, believing that you will not fail our noble and grand cause at this critical period.

The cost of putting the names of our candidate on the ballot, the issuing of State paper or bulletin, distributing campaign literature, getting speakers of national reputation, such as Eugene Debs, Father Hagerty or the like, will be considerable, but it is necessary

Again, comrades, do not shirk your duty now, but with a united front let us put the State of Minnesota into the vanguard for Socialism. Yours fra-

Dear Sir.-I am in receipt of your circular letter of the 16th instant, containing an appeal for financial support to the Social Democratic party, and as I twice before this summer have received similar letters from Mr. Lockwod, I think I may as well inform you, that I am already a member of a Socialist party, when there was already not consistently give any support whatever to your party, which is a rival to the S L. P. I have yet to learn what valld reasons you pepole have to start and maintain a new Socialist party , when there was already one such party in the field; and it puzzles me how you can adopt the quotation from Marx: "Workingmen of all countries, unite!" as your motto, know how, to cause a split in the ranks of Socialism. If you have any printed mater in form of leaflets giving valid reasons for the existence of your party you might make better use of your postage stamps by mailing me a copy of such reasons. Yours truly,

B. Eide. I may add that I am still waiting for those reasons, and will, I am afraid, have to wait until Gabriel blows his trumpet-if I live that long; and I want to live as long as possible—if for no other reason, for finding out those valid and honest reasons for the existence of that many-named party.

PURE AND SIMPLE UNION ENDORSES THE S. L. P.

Believes in "Politics in the Union"-The Kind that Will Abolish Capitalism.

To The Daily and Weekly People-I take pleasure in informing you and the public that Local Union No. 6, of the United Association of Hotel and Restaurant Employees, did, by a unanimous vote of all members present, at a recent meeting, sanction and approve of the platform of the Socialist Labor Party and endorsed that Party's ticket for the coming election

We thursby demonstrated that there is at least one pure and simple union which believes in "politics in unions," if they are the kind of politics which will enable the working class to lift themselves out of the rut of wage slavery.

Yours for Socialism and humanity. W. J. Hobart, President.

A LIVE PEOPLE AGENT.

What His Work Means to the Socialist

As every Socialist knows, the growth of our movement depends upon our ability to reach the working class and explain to them the principles of socialism. Undoubtedly the best agency for this purpose is the Party press, which, periodically gaining entrance to the home of the worker, fastens his attention and provokes his thought. This being true, it follows that one of the most important offices in the gift of an S. L. P. section is that of agent for The Weekly People. We have some agents that are hustlers, some that do very well, and some from whom we seldom hear.

As an example of what a Weekly People agent can accomplish, we wish to mention the work done by Comrade John Farrell of Lowell, Mass. And in order to show the difficulties he had to overcome, we will give a short history of the movement in Lowell.

Up until September 1899, Section Lowell had 24 active members. Owing to the Kangaroo trouble and the complications arising from it the section went to smash and had to be reorgan A few loyal comrades continued to carry on the work against great

The Weekly People continued to lose readers and a satisfactory agent could not be secured. John Farrell, of Boston, who had the misfortune to fall it with the Martha Moore Avery crowd then made his home in Lowell. came in contact with the S. L. P., and, realizing that its uncompromising principles and tacites were correct, he joined the Party. He became one of the most active members of the section, and when The Weekly People agency became vacant Farrell was elected to the position.

When Farrell took hold he found things in bad shape. Nearly all Week-ly subscriptions had expired, and there was not one regular reader of the Dai-Now there are five subscribers to the Daily and near 200 to the Weekly. and the credit for this is due to John Farrell.

Comrade Farrell has no exceptional advantages which enable him to accomplish so much. He is a laborer by occupation and it is only after a hard toil that he has time to devote to the work.

A Lowell comrade who has been observing the work of Farrell, states that the secret of his success is persistency He undertook to get subscribers and he gets them, and he has done this in a town in which Socialism is looked upon as the product of the ruler of Hades We trust that some of the more or less inactive agents of The Weekly People will do as this man has done-that is their best.

A LAST WORD TO THE MILITANTS OF THE S. L. P.

Only a week separates us from election day. The campaign of this year, fought under the most peculiar, and, for all we know, the most propitious conditions, will soon come to a close. For the S. L. P. it has been one of unceasing effort, sustained under very trying conditions, but hopeful for all that.

The great conflicts on the industrial field between a few capitalists, fully conscious of the interests of their class and large masses of toilers still groping in the dark; the wide-spread coal famine attending one of these conflicts and affecting so severely not only those di rectly engaged in the struggle, but people of all sorts in all sorts of conditions; the obvious fact that the real cause of the recent strike of the anthracite miners vas, primarily, attributable to rival cap italist interests-all these things have en gaged the attention of men thought in new directions. So forcibly has the point been brought home, tha men are compelled to perceive what ab olute control by a few irresponsible cap italists of the means of producing wealth means to the nation and what it will lend to.

make clear to the working class by theoretical deduction, as well as by the application of numberless facts has re ceived an illustration so powerful and onvincing, that the lesson conveyed will go far to shake the faith of many in the very structure of capitalist society and open their minds to Socialist arguments But this situation, full though it may be of potential good, can at this time turned to account for the cause of the Social Revolution only by our own ef-forts. Where the S. L. P. does not step in to show to the workers the only way out, where it does not drive home the logic of that situation, there revolutionary instinct will be led into the ground by Social and other Democrats.

This must be prevented to the full extent of our power. Realizing that a general call to arms, so to speak, setting in motion at one and the same time for a last, mighty, and final effort all the forces of our organization, the New York State Executive Committee, S. L. P. herewith calls upon each and every member and friend of the Party to get out and do all that is in him during thes last two weeks of the campaign, to bring home to his fellow-workers the necessity of casting their ballots on election day for their own class by voting the ticke of the Socialist Labor Party. We enclose samples of our leaflets, Go to your section or branch and supply yourself with these. Never go to work or from it, nor to any other place withyour pockets. Hand out a leastet when ever and wherever a chance presents tself and follow it up with argument is time and circumstances permit. In short and in fine, let no opportunity pass for doing a good turn to the Party.

From this day till the polls close, let the slogan of each militant be: "Coats off, sleeves up, and up and at them!" The New York State Executive Com mittee, Socialist Labor Party.

Malloney and French Address Large Crowd-The Automobile Parade.

Special to The Daily People.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 12.-Your cor-respondent, as the readers of The People are aware, is accompanying Comrade Joseph F. Malloney on an agitation tour of some of the principal cities of the After our meeting on Thursday night at Abington, we went to Brockton, where, with the assistance of Gilbert Monette. of that city, we sought to obtain the use of Perkins Park for the purpose of holding a meeting there on Friday. But the permit could not be procured till a late hour, thus preventing any advertising, so that after staying a while at the park in the evening and finding it to be a locality where a crowd cannot be picked up, though good audiences are secured there when meetings are well advertised, we decided to go on our way. Comrade Malloney to Gardner, where he had successful meeting, as already reported in The People, and the writer to cester to arrange for Sunday's meeting and attend to other routine work which falls within the scope of our duties.

However, the time in Brockton was not lost, as the permit obtained entitles the S. L. P. to the use of Perkins Park every Friday evening during the re-We immediately mainder of the season. notified the secretary of the S. E. C. to provide Brockton with speakers for those evenings. O'Fihelly and Monette will see that the meetings are thoroughly announced and if, as a result, the Mangaroo gentlemen who vote for frarchises don't have less votes in their pouches this election, while the S. L. P. vote increases, yours truly will be very much mistaken. The writer also received a donation of five dollars to the State campaign fund Gilbert Monette, to whom credit must be given for his assistance in procuring the above mentioned permit. On arriving in Worcester on Saturday, the first sight that met my eye was string of seventy-six automobiles lined up along Main street where a stop had been made on the way from New York While years of repeated to Boston. gazing into the glowing flames of a boiler furnace in that floating hell, the fireroom of a steamboat; and further years of watching the flitting forth and back of those little mechanical contrivances called shuttles, and the straining after "ends out," "mispicks," "wrong draws" and the like, which go to make miserable the life of the weaver, turn his hair permaturely gray and add cuss words to his vocabulary, will no doubt tend to weaken one's powers of vision, yet the writer, despite such abuse of his ocular apparatus, is still possessed of as good exceight as the average person.

Yet notwithstanding his ability to see clearly he failed to discover amongst the occupants of that long line of costly auomobiles one member of the class who labor and ingenuity produced them. Not an iron miner, carriage worker, brassfinisher, plater, polisher or painter; not wage slave class of any a member of the description could be seen in all the long

Worcester, like all other "progressive" cities, can furnish plenty of illustrations of the disparity existing between the wealth-producers and the wealth exproprinters. Just now it is supplying an instance of how much regard a middle class administration has for the law when its carrying out affects the pockets of the taxpayers. It appears that there is at present a vacancy on the Board of Aldermen and the law in the case is mandatory, saying that a vacancy occurring within a certain period shall be filled at a special election held for that purpose.

However, the holding of a election would cost the city 2700 dollars, quite a burden on the "taxpayers," so the law is being ignored and the vacancy will remain unfilled to the end of the term.

On Sunday afternoon, the weather having cleared up, Comrade Malloney, who had then arrived, and myself, in company with Comrade Walter J. Hoar, repaired to the south end of the Common where we found the professional beggars of the "Starvation Army" holding forth in their usual boisterous fashion, coursing soul-inspiring (?) music such as only a "salvation" band can grind out. And the air was filled with noises, while amidst them rose the sound

Of one praying Pharisee-like, kneeling on the rain-soaked ground. And he told how Christ had saved him, howled of Jesus long and loud, But all the while his tambourine was begging pennies from the crowd.

While waiting for those poor creatures to fluish, one could not help reflecting upon the awful mental condition of the poor deluded freaks who imagine that they are doing the work of the Lord by assisting the capitalist robbers to take a still further advantage of the miserable plight to which they have reduced so many of the working class and squeeze yet little more out of them.

The "Army of the Lord" having gone on its way rejoicing over the contents of the tambourine. Comrade Hoar mounted the box and announced our meeting, introducing as the first speaker the writer who spoke, to the best of his ability, on the class struggle, for a space of about wenty minutes.

By this time the audience numbered about 900, and it continued to increase after Comrade Malloney began, until it reached fully 1200. One could not avoid remarking with what close attention those present listened to the speaker as he expounded in his masterly fashion the principles and tactics of the S. L. P., and exposed the crookedness and duplicity of the capitalist politicians, labor fakirs and all other fakirs who try to dupe the working class into voting against their own interests. Malloney also reviewed the coal strike

In the first place, the assistance of the N. Y. L. P., opening its columns to articles prepared at the instigation and upon the information furnished by the Kangs and the little Kangs. In the second place, the "paper" in which the editorial appears takes up the discussion of the S. L. P. as often as it dares, in order to appear consistent with its assertion that the S. L. P. is dead. Just get a copy of its issue of Sunday, the 12th inst., and be convinced that it is lying on this point.

As for the remainder of the editorial you are referred to the various articles, letters, minutes, etc., etc., printed in The Daily and Weekly People. The editorial is a reflection of the telling effect that the S. L. P. is having upon the bogus "Socialist," alias "Social Democratic", party. It is a reflection of the fact that the gang of log-rollers and political corruptionists for whom it speaks seize every opportunity of destroying the influence of the S. L. P. with the working class.

You will find editorials and articles of a similar character in other Kangaroo and bogus socialist sheets. In London Justice, for instance, there appears an article entitled "The Fighting S. L. P. Fatherless," which goes to show that though the S. L. P. is "dead," "without influence," and without a parent of the male gender, the labor frauds whom it antagonizes are put to strenuous efforts to combat its existence and influence both at home and abroad. Of course, they will continue to contend that the S. L. P. is "dead," etc., etc., but their own writings prove them liars.

Working Class Plainly Stirred-Large Meeting As a Result. pecial to The Daily People. Newburgh, N. Y., Oct. 12 .- That the workingmen are doing some tall thinking and are feeling stirred was plain to-day by the size of the crowd that filled Stew-art Hall to hear the Socialist Labor Party candidate for Governor, Daniel De Leon.

The meeting was perceptibly larger than the Connolly meeting. The crowd listased attentively to the argument of the speaker, who, taking the coal strike for his illustrations, proved point by point the principles of the Socialist Labor Party, the false position of all other par-ties together with their labor fakir assistants. A crazy Kangaroo, who could hardly speak English, helped the speaker materially to clinch his point, and to show by local experience the political corrup-tion of the Social Democracy. He quoted the case of one Adam Krismayer, a saloon keeper in this town, who became member of the Social Democracy, and the room back of whose saloon is the meeting place of the Social Democracy, and who in this campaign is running for Supervisor on the Liberal Democratic Still Carried on Under the Flags of "Civilized" Europe.

The British admirality has issued an announcement stating that a telegram has been received from H. M. S. Lapwing, which reported an encounter on the 4th inst. between armed boats of that ship and two piratical dhows, at the head of the Persian Guit. An incident of this sore comes as a shock to the popular belief that slavetrading is a thing of the past. As a matter of fact, it is very rife indeed. An authority in the anti-slavery movement said yesterday that during recent year there has been an unexpected increase in the slave trade of East Africa. Slaves are kidnapped, and exported from the Portuguese, Italian, German and even British territories to the Per-Organized slave raids are carried on between the Anglo-Egyptian Soudan and Abyssinia to supply the slave markets held in the country of Godjan. Negro neid in the country of Godjan. Negro slaves are freely imported into Bagdad, whence they are sent with trading cara-vans into Teheran. West African missionaries say that slave trading and slavery practices are rife in the German colony of the Cameroons. Trading in slaves goes on unhindered in the Portuguese colonies both in West and East Africa. On the mainland strip of the Sultan of Zanzibar's territory domestic slavery exists. "So long as Muscat constitutes a mart for slaves captured in East Africa all the efforts of the authorities will remain fruitless," says a consular author-

The following graphic account of what still goes on was written recently by a Central African missionary:

"I have never seen such slave gangs bound west as pass us day after day, and the many dead and decomposing bodies by the rondside tell their sad tale -knocked on the head to save their misery. We had to turn away again and again in abhorrent disgust. crack, crack, of the slave whip and the dull thud on their backs is still sound-

This missionary says that in one day, close to the Congo State territory, he saw six slave caravans—herds of slaves tied together and driven like cattle. They lashed together with leather throngs in gangs of five or six, each carrying a heavy load of ivory above bis-shackles.

This trading was carried on under the Portuguese flag. An amount of it, however, continues under the British

OATLEY IN HARTFORD.

Candidate For Governor of Connecticut Speaks in Working Class Districts.

Special to The Daily People. Hartford, Conn., October 19 .-- So far we have had the best campaign in Hartford we ever had. We had Corregan, Connolly, Berry and Clobansky here, the last fourteen days. All meetings were successful in regard to attendance, attention paid to the speakers and sale of literature. If we are not going to have a substantial increase of votes this year then yours truly is very much mistaken.

Friday, October 16, we had the candi-date of the Socialist Labor Party for governor of Connecticut, Comrade Ernest T. Oatley of New Haven, in our midst. We had selected for his speech a place on Park street, the dividing line between the eighth and ninth wards. the very center of the working class districts of Hartford. About two hundred and fifty workingmen had assembled when we arrived.

Comrade Bob Healy opened the meeting with a few well chosen remarks and introduced Oatley to the audience, Oatley's subject was "The Trust." Although a very difficult theme for a short address, Oatley succeeded in handling it in a masterly way and to the full satisfaction of the audience. Finally he touched on the coal strike, which was in every one's mind and explained that phenomenon in society. This led to the Bull-pen outrages, and it was conclusively shown what the working class has to expect from their masters in such cases. The cure for such methods of treating the working class was duly shown up and pointed out.

After closing, questions were called for, but nobody responded.

Oatley made a very good impression on the audience as shown by the sale of twenty-three pamphlets and was the talk in all the shops the next day. We'll bave him speak in Hartford once more and shall put him on Trumball street, the center of the city.
